

TAG HEUER MONACO
CHRONOGRAPH RACING BLUE

A WATCH INSPIRED BY AN ICONIC RACE

When the brand introduced the Monaco timepiece in 1969, it revolutionized the watchmaking industry. Unlike anything else on the market, the Heuer Monaco featured the first square cased water-resistant chronograph which housed the revolutionary Calibre 11 movement. More than a bold design statement - the timepiece was named after the legendary principality that hosts one of Formula 1's most renowned races.

KEY FEATURES

NATIONAL RACING COLOURS

In the early days of motor racing, cars were distinguished by their national colors rather than manufacturer or sponsor liveries. Each country had its own specific hue. The unmistakable shade of blue associated with the French served as the inspiration for TAG Heuer's latest creation, the TAG Heuer Monaco Chronograph Racing Blue.

DIAL

The watch boasts a stunning silvered sunray brushed dial and is adorned with eight applied, silvered hour markers and 12 blue dot markers, facilitating effortless time reading. The subsidiary dials come in a gamut of azure tones, while the indexes are presented in a lighter shade. The watch features striking lime yellow accents that add a fresh touch to the timepiece, perfectly complementing the color palette of the model.

MOVEMENT

The watch is powered by the Calibre 11 automatic chronograph movement, encased within a sandblasted grade 2 titanium casing, giving both robustness and lightness to it, and featuring a sapphire caseback, allowing a glimpse into the movement inside.

The caseback of this timepiece is engraved with the limited edition "One of 1000".

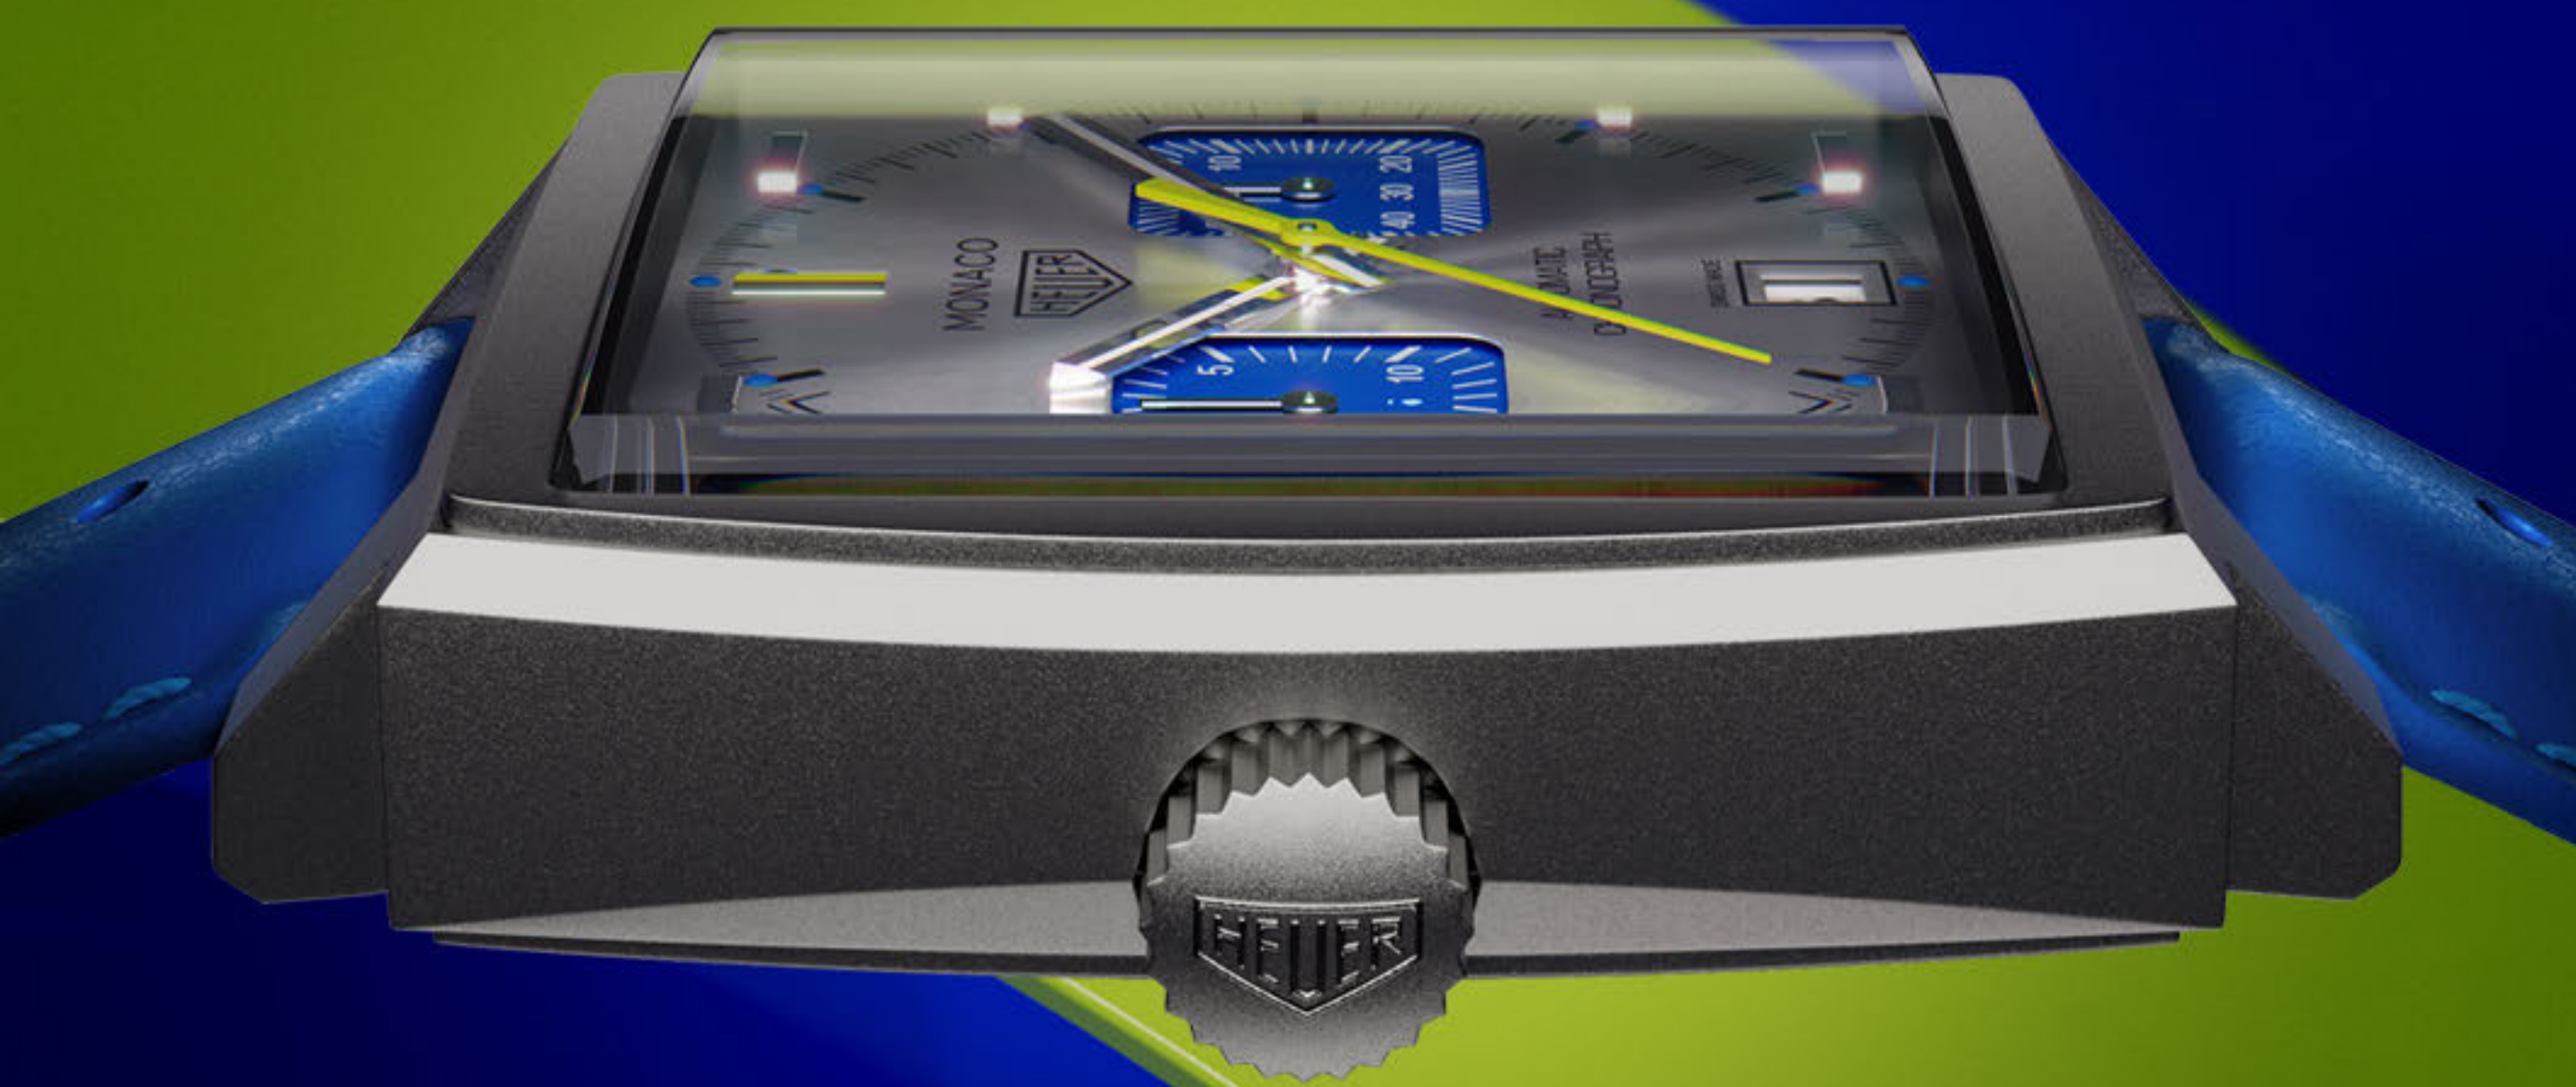

BRACELET

The TAG Heuer Monaco Chronograph Racing Blue comes with a blue calfskin strap with perforations, a signature for watches linked to racing. The strap is secured with a titanium folding clasp, featuring the engraved Heuer logo.

SUPER-LUMINOVA®

The hour and minute hands are enhanced with blue Super-LumiNova® for excellent visibility in all lighting conditions.

Over the years, the TAG Heuer Monaco has continued to evolve, incorporating new materials, technologies, and design elements that make it a true work of art, quickly becoming a symbol of the brand's avant-garde spirit. This latest version of the Monaco Chronograph Racing Blue is no exception, as it pays homage to the incredible racing heritage and the indelible mark that TAG Heuer has left on the discipline.
